Dominican University has several efforts when it comes to drug and alcohol education and prevention. During our Welcome Weekend, our orientation program for incoming first-year students, we have several skits performed in our auditorium for our new students to view. One of the skits directly addresses use and misuse of drugs and alcohol. Additionally, the residence life staff has annual training in alcohol and drug abuse, including education about signs of addiction. Further, all students who are found responsible for a first-time alcohol violation are mandated to attend our alcohol education program. Lastly, our university is investigating a more comprehensive, mandated, and online drug and alcohol program for all incoming students, to be completed before or during their first semester.
